CAUSE

The offender admitted to the probation officer on March 6, 2006, that he has been using methamphetamine and requests treatment. The offender has been under supervision for several years and has been employed as a truck driver. The offender's admission of methamphetamine use was unsolicited and not a result of a positive urine test. The offender reports he has been stressed and depressed and used methamphetamine to feel better. The offender indicated to the probation officer that he may benefit from mental health counseling and that condition is also recommended. The probation officer admonished the offender for his violation behavior and commended him for coming forward to admit and address his substance abuse before it resulted in much more serious consequences. It is requested the Court take judicial notice of the indicated violation behavior and take no action other than ordering the requested modifications.
